

PARTNER ABUSE INTERVENTION PROGRAM

Pillars Community Health
Healing. Caring. Educating.

WHAT IS THE

PARTNER ABUSE INTERVENTION PROGRAM

At Pillars Community Health, we believe everyone deserves healthy relationships. An essential part of ending domestic violence is focusing on prevention. Our Partner Abuse Intervention Program or PAIP is a 26-week program designed to help participants take accountability for their past actions and work towards building healthier relationships.

HELP IS AVAILABLE

TOGETHER WE CAN BUILD HEALTHY RELATIONSHIPS

PAIP is for individuals who recognize abusive tendencies in their behavior in romantic relationships and are seeking help. Groups are currently offered in English for male-identified clients. For female-identified clients, individual or small group services are available. Groups are open to voluntary and court-mandated clients.

*PAIP is a court-approved program that meets the requirements related to domestic battery and related cases.

GOALS

The goals of the Partner Abuse Intervention Program (PAIP) are:

- Replace controlling and/or violent conflict style with healthy alternatives
- Embrace honesty, accountability, and mutual respect in relationships
- Learn stress management techniques and healthy coping skills
- Ensure safety for victims and survivors
